Foreword

Harper Adams University is a leading specialist university tackling the future development of our planet's food production, processing, animal sciences, engineering, land management and sustainable business. We are a specialist University with a rich heritage.

The challenges we face in addressing the Gender Pay Gap include those of the legacy of those areas. We are seeing changes in the balance of equality between men and women in the roles that have traditionally been dominated by the other, but these are slow to come through in Gender Pay Gap statistics.

We are wholly committed to closing the gap. We recognise that we need to continually identify areas where there are emerging gaps and the We also recognise that the areas where our gender pay gaps are largest The appropriate committees and working groups across the University have been tasked with identifying any additional areas where we we can take steps to help us gain ground.

We are also committed to addressing any barriers to equality. All of our elimination of bias from our people processes.

The commitment to equality comes from the very top of our institution where gender equality is clearly evidenced through the make-up of the senior management team.

The University has an excellent equal pay record. It is proud to promote the
